Tyler's Tune

By the time you read this, Hannah and I could be holding our daughter in our arms. Or we could still be waiting. That is the thing about new life. There is no certainty in the timing. No matter how much we prepare, we cannot control when she will arrive or how everything will unfold.

I find myself constantly checking the calendar, wondering when the moment will come. Will it be smooth, or will there be challenges? Will she come early or late? It is a humbling reminder that we are not in control despite our plans. But God is.

"Trust in the Lord with all your heart, and do not lean on your own understanding. In all your ways acknowledge Him, and He will make straight your paths." Proverbs 3:5-6

Waiting on God's timing is one of the hardest yet most necessary lessons of faith. Whether it is the birth of a child, a career move, a difficult decision, or a season of uncertainty, we often want clear answers and predictable outcomes. But God calls us to trust even when the details are unclear.

As we wait for Everly's arrival, I am reminded that my job is not to have all the answers but to trust the One who does. Maybe you are also in a season of waiting, wondering when God will show up, how He will answer, or if He hears your prayers. Let me encourage you. He is faithful. His timing is perfect. And even in the unknown, He is working all things together for good. Romans 8:28
