Tyler's Tune

We Were Made for More

I know who I am because I know who God is. The cross wasn't the end; it was the beginning. Grace didn't stop at salvation... it continues, overflowing, shaping us into something new. This song reminds me of that truth. I wasn't made to dwell in my mistakes or carry the weight of my shame. I wasn't meant to linger in the grave of my past. Instead, I was called by name—called to life, freedom, and purpose.

The lyrics of Made For More are both a reflection and a declaration. "Why would I make a bed in my shame?" they ask, convicting me to leave behind what Christ has already redeemed. And then, "I was made for more," they proclaim, filling me with hope. It's not just the words; it's the rhythm. The song rises and falls, each phrase a reminder of who I am in Christ. My past is buried. My sin is gone. Grace has raised me to a new life. I sing these truths not just as a statement, but as an act of worship. They remind me that my story is still being written, and by God's grace, it's a story worth living. As the praise team sings this song this morning, I invite you to reflect on these truths and praise God for all He has done.
